

MINOTT'S KILLING DESCRIBED BY ONE OF MEN ACCUSED

Joseph La Salle Says Victim
Attacked Him and His Brother.

Joseph La Salle, brother of Antonio La Salle, indicted with him for the murder of James Minott, killed in the political feud in the Second Assembly District New York, last night, began his afternoon in General Sessions before Judge Crane and a jury to tell of the differences in his district that led to the killing, for which Antonio is now on trial for his life.

Joseph La Salle, thirty, went on the stand shortly after noon to testify in his brother's defense.

The night of the shooting he went into Mrs. Tamm's cafe at No. 79 1/2 James Street where Minott attacked his brother with a razor. He showed a war about five inches long.

Minott, seated, intoxicated, and three chairs and tables about, and "I had a pistol and could have shot him then," said La Salle. Minott went out in a few minutes. La Salle went to his own home on the opposite side of the street.

"I bathed my face and when I came down I met my brother Antonio. He said to come on with me to a doctor's. We met Minott at Madison and Oliver Streets. Minott pulled out his pistol and fired at us. My brother got out his pistol and returned the fire. Then Minott fired at me about eight times."

La Salle said that Minott was not more than four feet away when he opened fire.

OPIUM SMUGGLER SENT TO PRISON FOR YEAR

And Confederate of Milie, Who Turned on Him, Goes to Blackwell's.

Tonko L. Milie, soldier of fortune, chemist and financier, must serve a year in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta for his part in a scheme to smuggle opium into the United States from Germany. He was sentenced today by Federal District Judge Cushman.

Milie was arrested several weeks ago in a sensational raid of his apartments at No. 878 Riverside Drive. Milie's crime was aggravated, according to United States District Attorney Conant, by the fact that he was a man of education. His father, Loya Milie, is a wealthy plantation owner in Dalmatia, and Milie himself is a university graduate and a linguist.

Gustave Waldeck, a drug clerk who aided Milie and who turned Government witness, was sentenced to three months on Blackwell's Island. Judge Cushman said he did not want to encourage men who commit crimes and then turn Government witnesses to save themselves.

BURGULARS CAUGHT AT BAR.

Didn't Even Get Drinks They Feared for Selves.

Two burglars, said by the police to have long records, attempted to rob a saloon early to-day at No. 124 Park Avenue and didn't get even a drink. While the men were breaking in the door Policemen Valentine and Grant of the East One Hundred and Fourth Street station were watching from across the street.

The pair were at the bar and had poured out a drink when they turned to look down the street. At the East One Hundred and Fourth Street station they gave the names of Edward Sheehan, twenty-six, of No. 252 Eighth Avenue, and Daniel Harrington, twenty-seven, of North Coxsackville, N. J. Magistrate Levy held them in $2,000 each.

'HITS TRAIL,' SPILLS HIS RUM.

Saloon Keeper Invites Crowd to Watch His Place.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 25.—When Edmund Jones, a saloon-keeper of Plymouth, "hit the Rev. Anderson trail" last night, he mounted the church platform and declared he was through with selling grog for a living. Jones then invited the Evangelist and as many who wanted to accompany him to his saloon, where they smashed the mirrors, the glasses and dumped the beer out of the kegs on the floor.

Rev. Anderson then led in prayer meeting in the bar room and three more "hit the trail" there.
